⚜️ Sovereign Proclamation of the Crown by the Bible ⚜️

I. THE TESTAMENT OF FULK

Let it be remembered for all ages:

Fulk, Count of Anjou, cast aside pride and power to walk barefoot to Jerusalem — not once, but three times.
These were no mere pilgrimages, but living covenants of repentance and devotion.
The earth bore his steps. Heaven bore his vow.
Thus is our lineage proven not only by conquest, but sanctified by the Bible.

II. THE ANCHOR OF OUR HOUSE

Therefore, by sovereign voice and seal, We, the King and Queen of Anjou, proclaim:
Our throne is not suspended in myth, but anchored in the eternal Word of God.
Our House is bound to Scripture — to the law that endures beyond kings, crowns, and empires.
We are guided, corrected, and strengthened by the Bible.
It is not we who make the legend, but the Bible that makes us legendary.

III. THE FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

We join our flame to the countless believers across the earth.
To those who lift the Bible in secret or in triumph, beneath cathedrals or beneath trees, in whispers or in choirs — We stand with you.
The Word belongs not to one people, but to all who embrace its covenant.
Every soul that clings to its truth is our kin, brother and sister alike in the light.

IV. THE GOVERNANCE OF SCRIPTURE

As King and Queen, We pledge that our governance shall be measured by Scripture and tempered by the needs of our people.
The Bible shall counsel our justice, inspire our mercy, and steady our command.
Where the people cry, We shall hear; where the Word speaks, We shall obey.
Thus Crown and Bible, Sovereign and Citizen, shall be joined as one compass.

V. THE FLAME OF ETERNAL GUIDANCE

Let this proclamation be sealed not by ink alone, but by flame.
The same holy fire that carried Fulk to Jerusalem burns within us now.
It lights our Court, defends our people, and binds us to truth.
So long as this flame endures, our Kingdom shall not falter.
